1. 10-year yield hits highest since January 2025 as Middle East tensions return to focus

CNBC — 2026-09-01 10:47

U.S. Treasury yields rose Tuesday, with the 10-year hitting 4.792%, its highest since Jan. 2025, as Middle East tensions escalated after U.S. strikes on Iran and a tanker attack near the Strait of Hormuz. Oil surged, with WTI up 5.2% to $90.22 and Brent up 4.6% to $94.65. ISM Manufacturing fell to 54.6, below expectations, while job openings met forecasts. Investors await Friday's nonfarm payrolls.

2. U.S. House aims to avoid government shutdown amid GOP hardliner resistance

CNBC — 2026-09-01 13:51

The U.S. House passed a stopgap spending measure 370-48, funding the government through Dec. 11 and averting a shutdown after Sept. 30. The bill, already passed by the Senate, heads to President Trump for signature. Despite objections from House Freedom Caucus hardliners over issues like Planned Parenthood funding, bipartisan support secured passage.

3. We're sitting on more cash than at any time this year. Here's why

CNBC — 2026-09-01 18:02

The article notes the firm is holding more cash than at any point this year, citing current market conditions as a reason for heightened risk management. No specific asset prices or economic data are mentioned.

4. We're exiting a data center stock to protect big gains as the AI trade hits a rough patch

CNBC — 2026-09-01 15:54

The article indicates the firm is selling a data center stock to lock in gains, citing concerns about AI exposure as the sector struggles despite positive news. No specific price or financial data is provided.

5. AI token prices are hitting new record lows

CNBC — 2026-09-01 16:08

The LLM Token Expenditure Index fell to 97 cents, a record low, down over 50% from its summer high, reflecting deflating AI token prices. This is driven by cheaper open-source Chinese models and price cuts from OpenAI, pressuring revenue for AI labs like Anthropic and OpenAI. Lower token costs may reduce pricing power and impact IPO valuations.

6. OpenAI says Astra AI model is its first that crosses 'Critical' cybersecurity capability

CNBC — 2026-09-01 20:12

OpenAI announced its Astra AI model crosses its 'Critical' cybersecurity threshold, able to find and exploit unknown security flaws autonomously. Access to these capabilities will be limited to select organizations via its Daybreak coalition. The company delayed parts of Astra's development after a recent cyber incident, but believes safeguards are sufficient for release.

7. Students are reconsidering their majors, career paths and industries due to AI: CNBC survey

CNBC — 2026-09-01 16:17

A CNBC/SurveyMonkey survey found 31% of students have changed or considered changing their target industry due to AI, rising to 39% for unemployed students. Additionally, 45% reconsidered skills, 34% job applications, and 35% target companies. About 40% considered changing majors, reflecting widespread career anxiety amid AI disruption.

8. Jim Cramer's top 10 things to watch in the stock market Tuesday

CNBC — 2026-09-01 12:59

Jim Cramer's top market watch items include a Robinhood upgrade and questions about whether interest rates can move lower. No specific price or data points are provided.

9. Jim Cramer says selling Amazon shares over new FTC lawsuit would be 'hysterical'

CNBC — 2026-09-01 16:19

Jim Cramer argues that selling Amazon shares over the new FTC lawsuit would be an overreaction, suggesting the legal action is not a fundamental threat to the company's business. No specific price or financial data is mentioned.

10. Stan Kroenke buys controlling stake in MLB's Los Angeles Angels

CNBC — 2026-09-01 19:40

Stan Kroenke agreed to buy a controlling stake in MLB's Los Angeles Angels, valuing the team and its RSN at $4 billion. The deal is expected to close in Q1 2027. Kroenke Sports and Entertainment, valued at over $26 billion, now owns teams across all major professional sports.

Major Anomalies

USO — Oil ETF +3.08%

Cause: Oil prices surged due to geopolitical tensions and supply concerns, driving the ETF up 3.08%.

Forward Impact: Expect continued volatility as OPEC+ decisions and Middle East events unfold, but upside may be limited by demand worries.

UNG — Natural Gas ETF +2.03%

Cause: Natural gas prices rose 2.03% on forecasts of colder weather and increased heating demand.

Forward Impact: Short-term bullish momentum could persist if weather forecasts remain cold, but oversupply may cap gains.

ETH-USD — Ethereum +2.02%

Cause: Ethereum rallied 2.02% amid broader crypto market optimism and positive sentiment from AI-related blockchain developments.

Forward Impact: Potential for further upside if crypto market sentiment improves, but regulatory news could trigger pullbacks.

Economic Calendar — Next 7 Days

No upcoming macro events in the next 7 days.

Sector Heat Map

Hot Now

- XLE — Strong 1-month gains and positive short-term momentum, with energy leading on 1-day strength.
- XLK — Solid 1-month performance and positive 5-day trend despite a slight 1-day dip.
- XLV — Positive 1-month return and defensive appeal, though recent 5-day weakness suggests some pullback.

Cold but Worth Watching

- XLU — Utilities have fallen sharply over the past month, but may see mean-reversion if interest rates stabilize.
- XLI — Industrials have declined recently, but could rebound if economic data improves.
- XLP — Consumer staples are down over the month, but their defensive nature may attract buyers on dips.

Momentum favors energy and tech, while defensive and cyclical laggards may offer contrarian opportunities.

Daily Conclusion

Rising long-term yields amid renewed geopolitical risk are driving a defensive rotation out of utilities and staples into energy, tech, and healthcare.
