Major Anomalies

XLK — Technology ETF +3.04%

Cause: XLK surged 3.04% driven by a broad tech rebound, particularly in Apple and other mega-caps that had been under pressure.

Forward Impact: Sector may face headwinds from regulatory risks and Iran-related uncertainty, but long-term growth prospects remain intact.

QQQ — Nasdaq 100 ETF +2.51%

Cause: QQQ rose 2.51% as tech stocks rebounded from recent losses, with Apple outperforming as a notable outlier in the sector's drubbing.

Forward Impact: Continued volatility expected due to geopolitical tensions and mixed tech earnings, but strong AI and innovation themes may support further gains.

Hot Now

- Technology — Strong positive momentum across 1d, 5d, and 1m timeframes, leading the market.
- Industrials — Consistent gains with solid 1m performance, indicating broad-based strength.

Cold but Worth Watching

- Energy — Sharp decline over 1m may be overdone; potential for mean reversion if oil stabilizes.
- Communication Services — Negative 1m performance but recent 1d positive; could be bottoming with value appeal.

Growth and cyclical sectors are leading, while energy and communication services are oversold and may rebound.

Daily Conclusion

The dominant macro theme is a risk-on rotation into Technology and Industrials, fueled by geopolitical détente with Iran and the prospect of a final peace deal.
