Hot Now

- Healthcare — Strong positive returns across 1d, 5d, and 1m, with accelerating momentum
- Financials — Consistent gains across all timeframes, supported by rising interest rates
- Utilities — Defensive appeal with solid 1d and 1m performance, despite slight 5d dip

Cold but Worth Watching

- Technology — Sharp recent declines but long-term growth potential; oversold conditions may trigger reversal
- Energy — Negative 5d and 1m performance but energy demand remains structurally supportive

- Consumer Discretionary — Negative 1m but positive 5d; consumer spending resilience could drive mean reversion

Defensive and rate-sensitive sectors lead as growth and cyclical sectors face headwinds, suggesting a risk-off rotation with potential for mean reversion in oversold areas.

Daily Conclusion

Despite a historic oil supply shock from Iran, markets show no macro surprise, with rotation out of Technology and Energy into defensive sectors like Healthcare and Utilities signaling risk-off positioning amid depleted inventories.
