Major Anomalies

XLK — Technology ETF +3.04%

Cause: Technology sector outperformed on optimism over potential de-escalation in Middle East and lower interest rate expectations.

Forward Impact: Sector momentum could continue if earnings support valuations, but geopolitical risks remain a headwind.

QQQ — Nasdaq 100 ETF +2.51%

Cause: Tech rally driven by positive sentiment from ceasefire talks and dovish Fed comments, boosting growth stocks.

Forward Impact: Continued upside likely if geopolitical tensions ease and Fed remains accommodative, but volatility may persist.

ETH-USD — Ethereum -2.37%

Cause: Ethereum declined amid risk-off sentiment from geopolitical uncertainty and profit-taking after recent gains.

Forward Impact: Further downside possible if macro risks escalate, but crypto-specific catalysts like ETF approvals could limit losses.

Energy	-1.6%	-5.9%	-12.3%

Hot Now

- Technology — Strong positive momentum across 1d, 5d, and 1m timeframes, leading the market.
- Industrials — Consistent gains with solid 1m performance, indicating broad-based strength.

Cold but Worth Watching

- Energy — Sharp 1m decline of -12.3% and 5d drop of -5.9% suggest oversold conditions, potential for mean reversion.
- Communication Services — Negative across all timeframes with 1m -6.7%, but extreme underperformance may attract contrarian buyers.

Technology and Industrials lead with strong momentum, while Energy and Communication Services are deeply oversold and may see mean reversion.

Daily Conclusion

Risk-on sentiment dominates as a geopolitical breakthrough (Iran deal) fuels record weekly inflows into US equities, with technology and industrials surging while energy and communication services lag.
